

Dear FCC,

I expect you to perform the job function for which you exist.

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation and is a blatant, illegal campaign activity in support of the Bush/Cheney political campaign.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. But when large companies control the airwaves, we get more of what's good for the bottom line and less of what we need for our democracy. Instead of something produced at "News Central" far away, it's more important that we see real people from our own communities and more substantive news about issues that matter.

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. They show why the license renewal process needs to involve more than a returned postcard.

So, are you partisan and arbitrary in enforcement of FCC regulations, or will you confront and block Sinclair Broadcasting's plans before they openly and blatantly violate FCC regulations?

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Thomas Craig
